STATE THIRD IN NATION—

More Take Up Tree Farming

COOSA PINES — Emphasis on the small woodland owner led Alabama to third place nationally in the number of certified Tree Farms in 1956.

Addition of 149 new units to the industry - operated American Tree Farm System brought the state's grand total to 727, topped only by Mississippi and Texas, according to Alabama's Tree Farm Chairman Marion C. Leach.

While most of the new members were small owners, the total acreage in the state kept pace, climbing to 3,614,041. By year's end only Florida, Georgia and Oregon had more Tree Farm acreage.

"Most of the state's forests are in relatively small woodlots," Leach said, "and these lands supply about three-fourths of the raw materials used by Alabama's vitally important forest industries."

The Tree Farm System is sponsored by the nation's wood-using industries, nationally through American Forest Products Industries and locally by the Alabama Forest Industries Committee.

Its purpose is to recognize private woodland owners who have done outstanding jobs of managing their forests to produce continuing timber crops. Leach invited anyone interested in becoming a tree farmer to write the committee at Coosa Pines, Ala.

THIS WEEK AT ENTERPRISE—

Elba Defends SAC Crown

Elba's Tigers will participate in the South Alabama Conference basketball tournament in Enterprise, Thursday, Friday and Saturday of this week.

Ten teams will participate. They are Elba, Enterprise, Andalusia, Opp, Florala, Troy, Luverne, Georgiana, Evergreen and Greenville.

Opening game of the tournament will be played Thursday evening at 6 o'clock when Elba and Greenville meet in a battle that should indicate the local's chance of making a creditable showing in the tournament.

Other battles will be at 7:15 and 8:30, pitting Troy against Andalusia in the late game and Luverne against Georgiana in the middle game.

Troy, Anadalusia, Florala, Elba and Greenville will make up one bracket. The first three drew open round byes. Florala will get into the action for the first time Friday night at 6 o'clock when they meet the winner of the Elba - Greenville clash.

The second bracket will be composed of Enterprise, Luverne, Georgiana, Opp and Evergreen. All except Luverne and Georgiana drew byes, with Enterprise meeting the winner of that battle Friday night at 8:30.

Semi-finals are scheduled for Saturday afternoon with the first bracket playing at 2 o'clock and the second at 3:15.

Consolation play will precede the finals in Saturday night action at 7 o'clock followed by the championship game at 8:15.

Dopesters have made Enterprise, Elba, Greenville and Andalusia as the teams to beat, with Enterprise most highly favored. Elba is the only team of the four with a losing record for the season, but the Tigers have been coming along at a fast pace the past two weeks and could be the "team to beat" if they get past Greenville.

The SAC tournament should not be confused with the AA Second District play which will also take place in Enterprise in February. Elba will wind up the present season with a game in Hartford on Feb. 22.

2 Arrested on VPL Charges Last Week

Charley Adams of DeFuniak Springs, Fla. and Curtis Adams of Samson, middle-aged white men, were jailed here last Wednesday night, charged with transporting liquor.

The men were noticed acting strangely near the home of Mr. & Mrs. C. Y. Martin on West Simmons Street. When they sped away in their car to the east, Policeman Willie M. Williamson gave chase. The men were overtaken near the Cox Store north of town on Troy highway.

The men jumped out of their car and ran away. Sheriff H. D. Tillman was notified and took his bloodhounds to the scene, accompanied by Deputy Latiker. One of the men was soon captured and the other was apprehended after quite a chase. They were lodged in the county jail but were released on bond.

The car which was loaded with 50 gallons of liquor was turned over to Sheriff Tillman.

About People And Things

BY C. B. McDOWELL

BACK IN STATES

Mrs. Edd Kendrick received a telephone call Sunday night from her son, Elliott (Little Ed) Kendrick, who had just landed at San Diego, Calif. He has been in the Navy since a year ago last July. He expects to be stationed at Mayport, Fla. next June and will visit in Elba at that time.

Elliott said he had been in Japan and other parts of the world and had seen many interesting sights but none of them looked as good as Elba.

RETURNS FROM HOSPITAL

Gus Borders has returned from Birmingham where he underwent treatment for 28 days. He stated Tuesday that he felt better than he had for a long time and thought he would recover fully.

NEAR RECORD JAN. HEAT

This area has experienced near record temperatures for the past week. The high Tuesday of 82 was close to a Jan. 29 record. Abnormally warm weither, if it continues, will cause the sap to start running, the peach and pear trees to bloom and other plant life to become green. Then more than likely cold weather in February and March will kill the new growth.

Such weather this time of the year is an unwholesome condition.

S. H. HARRISON IMPROVES

It is reported that S. H. "Uncle Sol" Harrison, who suffered a stroke more than a week ago, was able to be brought to Elba last Saturday for a physical examination. His many friends are hopeful that he will have a speedy recovery.

DOES OUTSTANDING JOB

When basketball Coach Jim Diamond brought his surprising Elba Tigers into the championship game in the SAC competition at Enterprise Saturday night, it emphasized his amazing performance as basketball coach at Elba High.

Taking an inexperienced squad following the close of the football season, he appeared to have an exceedingly difficult job on his hands. The Tigers got off to a slow start against opposition that had a big advantage in size and experience.

However, it was noticeable that the team improved from game to game and finally have reached the point where it can be safely said that the Tigers are in the top five teams in the Second District. The Tigers now have the ability to give a good account in contests against all opponents in this part of the state.

Hats off to Coach Diamond for a big job well done!

BASKETBALL FOR DIMES

Men and boys of the Elba Baptist and Methodist churches will play two basketball games Thursday night at the school gym for the benefit of the March of Dimes.

The boys will play at 7 o'clock and the men at 8 o'clock. No admission will be charged but everyone will be asked to make a donation to the March of Dimes.

CHICKEN SUPPER

The members of the Elba Church of God Y. P. E. and Sunday School met at the home of Binnie Blackmon for a chicken supper and sing.

The Y. P. E. meets every Thursday night at 7 o'clock and every Sunday morning at 10 o'clock for Cunday School.

K. W. Adkison is Sunday School Supt.! Binnie Blackmon, Y. P. E. president; C. F. Barrett, pastor.

DELMER KELLY

Delmer Kelly, 62, former well known resident of Elba died in Perry, Fla. last Tuesday of a heart attack. He was a lumber inspector for the R. L. Lumber Co. of Elba and had many acquaintances here.

Survivors include his widow, Mrs. Annie Metcalf Kelly; a sister, Mrs. Gus Kelly, formerly of Elba; a granddaughter.

Funreal services were held in Cottonwood, Fla. Burial was in Cottonwood cemetery.

Former Elba friends who attended the funeral included Mrs Oswell Dowling, Mrs. Robert Stephens, Mrs. Ross Clark and Miss Nettie Ruth Walker.

POLIO MARCH

The Mothers March on Polio is the largest single mobilization for fund raising of any group in the county. In Elba the Mother's March on Polio will be Thursday night, Jan. 31. The fire alarm will be sounded at 7 o'clock.

"B" Team Has 5-5 Won – Lost Record

The Elba Bees under the leadership of Coach Bubba Warren have made a creditable showing in the ten games played up to Jan. 18. They broke even with five wins and five losses.

Victories have been over Luverne, 47-32; Eufaula, 56-50; Hartford, 54-45; Luverne, 37-29; Enterprise, 40-38.

Losses have been to Enterprise, 34-33; New Brockton, 57-32; Dothan, 52-30; Kinston, 50-39 and Greenville, 71-41.

In talking to Coach Warren Monday morning, he said that all of his Bees have shown fine cooperation and winning spirit and have improved from game to game. He said Leslie Waller has been outstanding in the scoring department and Virgil Boutwell good on defense and rebounding.

Dr. L. M. Johnson HeadsHospital Board

Dr. L. M. Johnson was elected chairman of the City Hospital Planning Board at its first meeting Friday night, Jan. 25 at the Southern Benefit Insurance Co. offices. Eris Paul was named vice chairman and Lallie Harper, secretary - treasurer.

Board members are Dr. Johnson, city council represenative; Judge Eris Paul, J. F. Brunson, J. D. Whitman, H. B. Larkins, Mrs. C. E. Dorsey, Mrs. J. M. Kimmey, Mrs. Paul Hobbs and Miss Lallie Harper. They were named by the city council from a list submitted by the Chamber of Commerce.

Because the board needed additional information and instructions, Dr. Johnson was requested to invite Clay Dean of Montgomery to attend the next meeting. He is director of the State Hospital Planning Board. At a city-wide meeting held in Elba about a year ago, he told the audience that the county or city had to appoint a Hospital Board to carry out any construction that might get aid under the Hill - Burton Act. The city council appointed this group and now it is up to them to determine the feasibility of constructing a hospital here. If they decide it is feasible, plans to finance it must be laid.

BEAT ELBA IN FINALS—

Enterprise Wins SAC Crown

Coach Jim Diamond's surprising Elba Tigers, after bowing over Greenville 55-35, Florala 67-36 and Troy 46-32, bowed to the Enterprise Wildcats in the final game of the SAC tournament at Enterprise by the score of 51-44. The Tigers were defending champions of the South Alabama Conference and gave a remarkably strong defense of the title gained in last year's competition in Elba.

Setting the pace for the first three quarters, Elba finally faltered before Enterprise's pounding and early in the fourth period lost the lead for keeps.

Harvey Griffin kept up his consistent record o fscoring 16 points every game for the Tigers He was followed by John Frank Hudson with 8, Jimmy Boswell scored 7 markers and Jerry Brooks and Don Weeks hit for 6 points each

Ned Harbuck, voted the outstanding player of the tournament paced the Wildcats with 16 points followed by Harrell Thompson with 13 and Dickie Mullins with 12.

Elba led 12-10 at the end of the first period and increased the lead to five points at the half. Enterprise whittled it to one point at the end of the final stanza.

Troy grabbed third place in the tournament by whipping the Opp Bobcats in the consolation game, 49-30.

In the semi-finals Saturday afternoon, Enterprise moved into the championship game by downing Opp, 61-36. Elba beat Troy, 46-32 to gain the finals. Against Troy Griffin scored 22 points for the Tigers.

Elba scorers were:
Griffin, 16, 18, 22, 16— 76
Brooks, 2, 6, 11, 8 — 27
Boswell, 8, 9, 4, 7 — 28
Grimes, 4, 9, 0, 1 — 14
Weeks, 6, 0, 4, 6 — 16

On the All-Touranment team were Harvey Griffin and Jimmy Boswell of Elba; Harrell Thompson and Ned Harbuck of Enterprise and Johnny Taylor of Luverne.

Second team: Glen Murry, Luverne; Jerry Brooks, Elba; Dickie Mullins, Enterprise; Kenneth Griffin, Opp; Wayne Frazier, Evergreen.

LOSE TO EUFAULA, 54-49

The Elba Tigers were too short for the Tigers at Eufaula Tuesday night. It was a case of one of the shortest cage teams in the district being pitted against the tallest.

Taking full advantage of their height, Eufaula beat the Elba quintet by a five-point margin, 54-49, in a hard-fought game.

There is no question about the Eufaula team being one of the strongest in the Second District and local fans were well pleased with the showing made by Coach Jim Diamond's team, especially on the Eufaula court. Difficulty in making free shots, as usual, was a factor in Elba's defeat.

Officials were reported more lenient in calling fouls and it is needless to say the game was more interesting to watch because of that.

Jimmy Boswell paced the Elba scoring with 14 points, followed by Harvey Griffin with 11. Other Elba scorers were Brooks 10, Mills 6, Weeks 5, Hudson 2, Grimes 1. Rex Marler, Wayne Jacobs and Charles Taylor were subs.

The Eufaula B team whipped Elba 40-36 in a real thriller.

A game that should be well worth seeing will be played here Friday night between Elba and Kinston. Another headliner is scheduled for the Elba court on next Tuesday night when Dothan will be the foe.

New Brockton Firm Cited for Wage-Hour Law Violations

MONTGOMERY — Secretary of Labor James P. Mitchell, through Solicitor of Labor Stuart Rothman, has asked the U. S. Supreme Court here for an order restraining M & H Chair Company, Inc. of New Brockton, and Gibbs R. McCormick, president of the firm, from future violations of the Federal Wage and Hour Law.

A manufacturer of cane-bottom and fiber-bottom chairs, the firm is alleged in the complaint to have used employees both in its establishment and also in the workers' homes to produce the product, substantial quantities of which were shipped out of the state.

Extending over a period since November 11, 1954, the complaint alleges that worker have been paid less than 75 cents an hour before March 1, 1956, and less than $1 an hour thereafter.

Other violations specified are failure to maintain adequate records of wages, hours and practices of employment by plant employees and homeworkers and violation of shipping provisions of the wage law.

AROUND THE FLOWING WELL

By Paul E. Cunningham

SCENES SEEN coming down Brantley Road Saturday afternoon: Kimmey Dorsey in a bright red shirt and hunting cap astride a tractor with a bush hog attached. He was mowing the weeds off his lot.

On a road block for the March of Dimes was Flournoy Whitman and four National Guard members.

Harvey Waters had lots of supervision on a little wood work he was doing on his front porch. Four very interested girls had their heads so close to his work I wondered how he managed to keep going.

AN ORIGINAL Homestead Deed to the land settled by his grandfather was found in an old trunk recently by Charles P Hudson. It was in remarkably good shape and easily legible. Charles said his grandfather, Charles R. Hudson, homesteaded on 159 acres of land in the Hudson Mill community about the turn of the century. The Homestead deed had no date but was made out during the McKinley administration in the early 1900's. It was certificate No. 16,887 and application no. 27,932 from the Montgomery land offire.

THE EDITOR who said the job of a weekly newspaperman wouldn't be bad if he didn't have to live with his mistakes for a week knew what he was talking about. Everytime I stuck my head out the door last week, I was told about another mistake. It all started before the paper got off the press. Pert Julia Craft Boutwell came in and told me in the writeup of her marriage we had incorrectly listed her 19-year-old husband Jackie as being 37. I am glad to correct that one.

About the time all the papers were printed I noticed a big error in one of the headlines. How many of you caught the "Interchangeability CaNtalogue" in the head over the story about Bibb Burdick?

Then a classifed ad for Max Reeves was inadvertently left out and Hayward Taylor told us there was an inaccuracy in the story about the fire at his brooder house. He said the fire department did go out there and saved the day. The 500-gallon tank on the new truck was used to a good advantage. Hayward said his brooder house probably would have been a total loss if it wasn't for the prompt and effective action of the volunteer firemen. He wanted them to get full credit.

Then I want all the guys who have been kidding Wayne Marler to know that I appreciate him telling me about the Elba players on the Troy basketball team. Wayne didn't talk to me with any idea I was going to print what he said. He knew I was interested in the ex-Elba basketball stars at Troy and just dropped by to tell me about it.

ONE THING I can guarantee advertisers after last week — that is that folks around here read every word that is in The Clipper. Folks don't miss a line and if something is amiss they usually let the editor know

AT ASC OFFICE FEB. 7—

Soil Bank Reserve Ready

Coffee County farmers will have an opportunity to sign Soil Bank 1957 Acreage Reserve agreements on cotton beginning Monday, Feb. 4, at the county ASC office in New Brockton, according to Lester Gunter, chairman of the ASC county committee. Applications will be taken on a "first-come, first-served" basis until county funds allocated for this program are exhausted. Each farmer must apply in person.

Any producer desiring to put cotton in the acreage reserve may put in up to 10 acres or 30 percent of his allotment, whichever is larger. The acreage designated as the Acreage Reserve must be land suitable for the production of cotton. If the land below the average yield commonly used for the production of cotton on the farm is designated, a reduction in payment will be made to compensate for the poorer acreage. The land cannot be used for the production of a 1957 crop for harvest, nor can it be used for 1957 grazing.

Producers who put in the same acreage again in 1958 and 1959 that is used in 1957 will be eligible for a premium of 10 per cent above the payment rate established for the farm in the applicable year.

Rights and privileges of tenants on farms are protected under the agreements.

Complete information may be obtained from the County ASC office in New Brockton.

IN ANDALUSIA—

Co-ops Holding Open House

ANDALUSIA — The Alabama and Covington Electric Cooperatives have a big "welcome mat" out this week, in preparation for open house at their new headquarters facilities Saturday and Sunday, Feb. 2 and 3.

Built at a cost of over $275,000, the new headquarters of the Cooperatives were recently completed and occupied. They are located at the Andalusia city limits on the Andalusia-Gantt highway.

Open house plans have been completed, officials of the Cooperatives said. The schedule of activities is:

Visitors will be conducted on guided tours of the facilities all day Saturday (Feb. 2) and on Sunday afternoon (Feb. 3), from 2:00 to 5:00 P. M.

Refreshments will be served, and useful favors presented to all visitors.

The new headquarters of the Cooperatives — one of the most modern such units in South Alabama — are located on an eight-acre tract near the Andalusia city limits.

The facilities are arranged in three separate units. These include the administration building, which contains offices for most administrative and office employees, the warehouse building, and the garage building.

The administration building, of latest architectural design, contains 6,500 square feet of floor space. Offices are well lighted, offering from 50 to 100 foot candles of light.

From Our Early Files

J. B. Wood, who is connected with a medicine show that is entertaining in Elba this week, called at the Clipper office Tuesday. He is a resident of Wichita, Kansas where his son is the aviation editor of The Wichita Eagle. He and I discussed the great fire and destructive storm which almost destroyed Wichita when I was a mere lad and when it was a comparatively small place. Wichita is now a city of 125,000 population. Among the Christmas and New Year's greeting cards received by Mrs. McDowell and me was one from Albert Perdue, mailed nearly a month ago at Rancagun, Chile. His mother, Mrs. W. B. Perdue, received an air mail letter from him one day this week. It was the kind of letter that would tend to make any mother proud of her son and should go a long way toward comforting her in the loss of her husband which occurred recently.

Dr. W. M. Ringsdorf and Forrest Talbot are greatly interested in the possibilities of making starch from sweet potatoes. An important industry has been established at Laurel, Miss. where farmers are realizing nice returns from their crops, many persons being furnished with employment and other benefits accruing. Dr. Ringsdorf has written Washington, D. C. for additional "dope" on the proposition and will probably take up the matter with the Elba Chamber of Commerce at an early date. It may be that an important industry will be built up in this area. The Clipper is ready to boost any and all projects that have merit and give promise to be of benefit to Elba and the farmers of this section. Go to it, Doc, and Forrest and we will all be with you.

When a person contracts with the Emergency Aid Life Insurance Association, he is given a policy with a beautiful pink ribbon, neatly arranged under the seal. President W. M. Brunson reports that his staff of solicitors has written so many contracts that Chief Ribbon Buyer Tobe Rhodes has exhausted the supply of ribbon on the Elba market. Tobe is an expert judge of ribbon and it may be that he will have to go to Montgomery to find just the shade, texture and quality that his exacting taste demands.

The home of Mr. & Mrs. W. Kay Farris in West Elba was the scene of a double birthday dinner Sunday. Mrs. Drayden Smith's birthday comes on Dec. 28 and her husband's anniversary falls on Jan. 1 so a joint celebration was held. Cakes with the proper number of lighted candles were brought in at separate intervals. It may not be appropriate to state the exact number of candles on the respective cakes but suffice it to say, there were a pretty good-sized flock of them.

Present were Mr. & Mrs. F. A. Farris and family, Dr. & Mrs. W. C. Braswell and family, Miss Eunora Farris, Frank Rainer Jr., Youngwood Rainer, Harry Frank of Chicago, and Mrs. O. E. Vaughn, besides the honor guests and hosts and their children.

SOLVE - A - CRIME

BY A. C. GORDON

"I wish I could help you," the fat gambler, Tom Erickson, says "I'll admit I was here in town 10 months ago, but I sure can't remember what I was doing on the afternoon Mike Carew was bumped off. Who could remember that far back"?

"You've been living mighty high since then, you remark. "You left for Mexico soon after the killing and spent a lot of money down there. We also know you had some dealings with Mike Carew."

The fat man shakes all over as he chuckles. "It bothers you to see a man like me with a wad of dough. So some guy climbs through the transom of Mike's hotel room while he's sleeping, pushes a knife into him, steals thirty grand, and destroys his records! Anybody could have done it to a crooked bookie like him. Besides, with this waistline of mine, you know I could not have gone through that transom."

"I can see that," you say, "but here's an I. O. U. we found in Mike's possessions, signed by you to the tune of five thousand dollars. How about that?"

"Mike must have forgotten to destroy that . . . he promised. You see, a day or so before he was knocked off, I bet a long-shot horse with Mike — and it came in — fifteen thousand dollars. Mike was plenty sore about it — but finally forked over ten thousand dollars to me, told me he'd tear up the I. O. U. for five thousand, and that he wasn't going to take anymore of my bets. How right he was!"

"And you don't remember what you were doing on the day Mike was killed?"

"Not for sure. I was probably in the middle of my big celebration over that big win." Erickson yawns and stretches and as he does your eye goes to the ornate belt which is strained to the last eyelet around his blubbery middle. As you look, the eyelet suddenly gives up the fight and breaks. "Oh, oh," sighs Erickson, "that was one of my favorite belts. Bought it in Mexico. Oh well, I feel more comfortable without it."

"It seems to me," you say, that you had quite a good motive for killing Mike. Maybe he did deduct what you owed him from your winnings on that long shot horse, but it seems that a smart fellow like you would have insisted on seeing him tear up that I. O. U. I think he held it back for future use against you. You went after it yourself, didn't find it, but came out of the deal with a lot of money instead."

"Now, now," says Erickson complacently. "We've already agreed that was impossible for me to get into his room."

You smile at him slowly and shake your head. What makes you think Erickson could have murdered Mike Carew?

SOLUTION — You suspect that Tom Erickson has gained his weight while living high on his newly-gained money in Mexico. He said that he bought the belt he was wearing while in Mexico. Had he been fat at the time of the purchase, most surely he would have bought a larger-size belt — not one which strained while fastened to the LAST EYELET! Thus, he conceivably could have been slim enough 10 months ago to have climbed through the transom of Mike Carew's room.

Q. I have been invited to a bridal shower, but because of a previous commitment, am unable to attend. Should I send a gift to the shower?

A. Yes, that is the proper thing to do.

Growers Intend to Produce More Turkeys

Turkey growers intend to produce 10 percent more turkeys in 1957 than last year the Crop Reporting Board announced today. If turkey growers carry out intentions, the number of turkeys will be about 84 million, compared with 76 million in 1956. All regions of the country, except the North Atlantic, plan increases ranging in the West at 6 per cent to 16 percent in the West North Central states. Growers in the North Atlantic States expect to equal last years' production.

Heavy breed growers intend to raise 71,157,000 turkeys this year —13 percent more than last year Growers plan to increase heavy white breeds 10 percent above last year and bronze and other heavy breeds 15 percent. In 1956 heavy white breeds accounted for about a fourth of all heavies raised.

Bronze and other heavy breeds will be above last year in all regions if farmers plans are carried out.

LIGHT BREED growers expect to produce 13,134,000 turkeys in 1957 — a decrease of 3 percent. All regions of the country plan fewer light breed turkeys except the important South Atlantic region where production is expected to go up 10 percent.

Fryer - Roasters data are available for the first time from this survey. Growers indicated that during 1956 they sold 73 percent of the light breeds, 33 percent of the heavy whites, and less than 2 percent of the bronze and other heavy turkeys as fryer -roasters.

The number of turkeys actually raised in 1957 may vary somewhat from January 1 intentions, the difference depending on prices for feed, supply and prices of hatching eggs and poults, and the sale of turkeys remaining in growers' hands. In 1956, growers raised 15 percent more turkeys than in 1955, about 10 percent more than intended on Jan. 1.

During 1956 there was an abundance of poults throughout a fairly long hatching season. Feed prices were stable and credit was not a limiting factor. In 1955, growers raised 4 percent fewer turkeys — about the same as intended on Jan. 1. Turkey prices remained below a year earlier during the growing season and the feed - price relationship was less favorable. The number of turkeys raised in 1954 was 2 percent larger than Jan. 1 intentions when turkey and feed prices remained close to the profitable level of a year earlier throughout the main hatching season. The turkey crop in 1953 was the same as intended Jan. 1 when turkey and feed prices remained fairly steady throughout the hatching season.

Feature Schedule

AUBURN — Agriculture is a highly specialized and ever-changing occupation. And to keep pace with these changes and serve the farmer even better, the television program, "Alabama Farm Facts," will go on a regular schedule of helpful farm features on Feb. 4.

The program, which originates from Auburn at 12:30 daily, and is shown over the Alabama Educational Television Network, will use poultry features each Monday; farm policy, Tuesday; horticulture Wednesday; forestry, Thursday; and livestock Friday.

Information on these subjects will be presented by staff members of the API School of Agriculture and Experiment Station and the Extension Service. Extension Economist Foy Helms' regular monthly economic outlook will be carried as usual.

Tom Eden, producer of the program, said he would continue to give the regular farm news and weather and market reports on the show, which may be seen over Channels 2, 7 and 10.

Milk Apt to Remain On Same Price Level

Milk prices will probably remain about the same this year as last, although more milk will be available, according to Extension Economist Foy Helms. The trend during the past two years for a higher rate of production per cow promises to continue.

Another trend is toward fewer but larger dairy herds. Helms said that labor costs will probably be higher this year, but that on the better dairy farms increased efficiency will offset this rise. Large feed supplies will probably help out the dairyman on the expense side of the ledger.

Good Truck Crops Will Chalk Up Profits

AUBURN — Good fresh garden vegetables can always find takers on the market, and the grower usually pockets a nice profit for his work. But saleable truck crops require hard labor, good land, and effective control of insects and disease.

API Extension Horticulturist John Bagby said this week that high production costs call for big returns per acre to show a profit. But he pointed out that Alabama farmers did all right with such crops last year. They sold approximately $22 million worth from 127,400 acres, averaging a few cents over $102 per acre. Of course these figures do not include vegetables for home use. Farm gardens numbered 174,000 with an estimated value of $200 each for a total of $34 million.

Bagby said the first thing necessary for a successful truck crop is suitable soil, preferably a well-drained, sandy loam soil with high organic content. Yield may be increased by using 10 to 12 tons of stable manure or five tons of poultry manure per acre if manure is not available a cover crop of vetch, clover or rye will help.

Preparation of land calls for deep plowing four to six weeks prior to planting. The land should be disked three or four times to form a well pulverized, firm seedbed and help control grass and weeds. Vegetable crops require relatively high rates of fertilizer, including nitrogen. And as they mature, they need more plant food.

Truck crop growers cannot afford to take a chance on losing a crop because of insects or diseases. In Alabama nematodes especially pose a serious problem. Insect and disease control measures are usually preventives rather than cures.

Household Hints

Sugar added to fruit before freezing will retard the loss of Vitamin C and help the fruit retain its natural color.

If furniture drawers stick, rub the edges with wax, preferably a paste wax.

Use a paper plate underneath a paint can when painting. It provides a place for the brush and prevents paint from dripping on the floor.

Dust, pencil shavings and other loose dirt won't collect on the bottom and sides of a metal or wood wastebasket if the basket is waxed with any good polishing wax.

To prevent the bottom button on a cotat-style dress from tearing off, sew it to an inch-long piece of plastic. Then sew the elastic flat to the dress with the button in its proper place. The elastic will give the button enough stretch to prevent tearing and the elastic won't show when the dress is buttoned.

A button sewed to one corner of the dishcloth is a wonderful aid to scrape off stubborn particles of food that have dried on plates or stuck to pans.

When you're going to movies with children, a shopping bag can save you a lot of worry. It will hold all the mittens, hats, scarves and other items likely to be lost.

Farm News and Reports

Lime Added to Soils Boosts Cotton Yields

AUBURN — Sufficient lime applied to cotton land may mean the difference between profit and loss for the Albama cotton farmer.

In fact, API Extension Agronomist Jasper Jernigan this week described the dollar invested in lime for cotton land as one that will pay big dividends in the farmer's overall cotton production program.

And he added a warning to farmers who do not use enough lime in the soil that a cotton disease called crinkle leaf is increasing throughout the state.

This disease is caused by insufficient lime in the soil.

Jernigan advised all cotton farmers, who have not had soil tests this year to hurry and do so. And he stressed the necessity of liming and fertilizing the land according to soil test recommendations, thus giving the cotton crops the best possible chance to be profitable this year

Over one-third of the soil sample tests sent to the testing laboratory at Auburn have revealed that lime is a needed addition to the soil for producing good cotton crops. And then too. the other fertilizers called for in soil test recommendations will help improve yields.

Jernigan cited experiments at five locations in the state in 1955, where the addition of one ton of lime to the soil gave an extra yield of 108 pounds of seed cotton per acre.

He said that a liming program would aggravate other deficiencies in the soil if the farmer was using low levels of fertilizer. On most state soils cotton should be fertilized with 50 to 60 pounds each of nitrogen, potash and phosphorus per acre.

FARM BRIEFS

About 300 pounds of water is required to produce one pound of corn and about 800 pounds of water to produce one pound of cotton.

Last fall Alabama hog growers set an all-time record in saving an average of seven pigs per litter. The widespread use of farrowing jackets is credited with helping to make this high average possible.

Coastal Bermuda is the grass of the decade from the standpoint of producing grazing and hay on most of the upland soils of the state.

The mnoths of February and March are the hardest on range cattle. Feed is usually short at that time, and lice and grubs cause their worst damage unless controlled.

Proper housing for laying hens or broilers promotes a high rate and quality of egg production or meat conversion, results in economy of feed, and helps insure freedom from disease.

Many farmers are finding that buying cooperatively with other farmers offers a big opportunity for cutting marketing costs on production supplies.

Cows on rough grazing should have from one to three pounds of oil-seed meal and four pounds of corn and cob meal per day, depending on their size, condition, and the severity of the weather

1000,000 Pine Seedlings Planted Here This Month

BY O. D. FINCHER
Soil Conservationist

Farmers in West Coffee County cooperating with the Wiregrass Soil Conservation District have planted over 100,000 pine seedlings this month. Most of these pines were planted on steep eroded land that had quit producing good yields of row crops.

In a few years these fields will take on a new look. Most of the eroded spots will be hidden by a blanket of straw. This blanket of straw will protect the fields from any further washing. Land is being protected while growing a product for the future.

Those planting pine trees last month in cooperation with the Soil Conservation District were J. O. English, J. H. Foley, Fountain Lee, J. G. Lee, M. J. Lee, Robert Lee, J. L. Mathews, M. K. Parrish, Dozier Roberts, J. L. Wilson, Flournoy Whitman, Charles Wise, G. S. Kelley and Vannie Kelly.

The Soil Conservation Service office will start taking application fo rpine seedlings about April 1. They will probably be delivered in January of next year.

MODERN ETIQUETTE

By ROBERTA LEE

Q. Should birth announcements be mailed to near relatives as well as to friends who might not otherwise know of the baby's arrival?

A. Usually announnements to one's own family and most intimate friends are telephoned soon after the baby is born. However, if one has some especially attractive cards, the recipients might like to have them as keepsakes.

Q. Is it proper to use a knife to cut open a muffin at the table?

A. Never! Break it open with the fingers, but don't cut it.

Q. When one is a guest in someone's home, and it is necessary to make a long - distance call, who should pay the charges?

A. The guest should immediately call the operator upon finishing the call and ask for the charges. This amount should be given to the hostess.

Q. When passing a salt or pepper shaker at the table, should one place it on the table or hand it directly to the person?

A. It is probably less awkward to put it down on the table and let the person pick it up.

Q. In what way should a divorced woman distinguish herself from the second Mrs. James Gardner?

A. By prefixing her maiden name to her former husband's surname, as "Mrs. Helen Smith Gardner."

Q. If a girl is to be married in a simple ceremony in a traveling costume, should she carry flowers?

A. There is no rule against it, but usually the bride, under these circumstances, wears a corsage of orchids, gardenias, roses or any flower that suits her fancy.

Q. Is it proper to ask the guest of honor at our dinner table to say grace before the meal?

A. If your guest is a clergyman, it is proper to ask him to say the prayer. Otherwise, this should be spoken by the host, or in his absence, the hostess.

Q. When writing a letter on single - sheet note paper, is it proper to write on both sides?

A. This is perfectly proper, unless the paper is so thin that the writing on one side shows through on the other.

Q. Which is the correct form of introduction, "Mrs. White, this is my husband," or "Mrs. White, this is Mr. Simmons."?

A. The correct form is, "Mrs. White, this is my husband."

PASSENGER CAR STYLING comes to the trucking business in Ford's 1957 Styleside Pickup. It typifies revolutionary changes in new Ford trucks which Ford dealers display February 1. Full-width styling has more than just "eye appeal." It widens the truck's load area by 20 inches, and adds 25 percent more load capacity than old-style models offer. This pickup is one of nearly 300 models in the 1957 Ford line which ranges upward to huge extra heavy duty models.

EDITORIALS

There's Something Wrong Here!!

Of late lots has been written about the growing problem of teenage delinquency and its cost to the taxpayers. Part of this might be traced to the barriers lowered on the youth who is full of energy and drive. Federal wage-hour laws make it virtually impossible for a manufacturing firm such as Dorsey Trailers to hire a youth before he is 18. If he were hired, he couldn't be taught to use a lathe, for example, because he would be working around machinery and that would be classed as "hazardous."

In a small plant such as The Clipper where laws regulating interstate commerce do not apply, the risk is still too great for "the little guy" to hire a boy after school hours and train him to run the press or work around the other machinery in the shop. (Bobby Inman works here but can't be instructed on the machinery because of his age.) State labor laws usually are patterned after the federal regulations and put full responsibility on the employer in case a youth gets hurt running the machinery. It would be easy for a man to get involved in a damage suit and lose everything he had if a boy got hurt while working for him.

The "do-gooders" will point to the evils of child labor and the abuses of 50 years ago. They have their point. In rebuttal, it is only necessary to point out that a ninth grader on the football field is more subject to injury than he would be if being trained to be a printer. "Uncle Mac" (C. B. McDowell) has been around print shops and newspapers for over 50 years and has told us of only one freak accidental death. Tips of fingers do get sawed off and hands do get caught in machinery for the careless. But percentagewise we'll bet more get hurt playing football than working in a print shop.

From our own observations we have seen a lot more football knees than injured printers.

Then, while still restricted by law from working a hand-fed press, the 15-year-old youth has lawful access to the automobile. At 16 he can get a driver's license. Everyone knows the car is the worst killer in America today and that persons under 25 years of age constitute the greatest proportion of those involved in accidents. It is all right for the youngster of 16 to control a car which at his whim can become an instrument of death but it is not all right for him to learn a productive trade. Yet the risks in industry are fewer.

At 17, with parents' permission, a young man can join the Marine Corps and take the necessarily tough training of that arm. During the war, 17-year-olds were drafted and sent to the front lines. But don't expose them to the dangers of a little "snapper" press and let them learn a worthwhile trade.

We have failed to strike a happy medium between the sweat shops of yesteryear and too much molly coddling of tennagers. By our own actions we have closed doors to teenagers of many worthwhile outlets for their surplus enegry. They could be safely learning, earning and working at many more jobs than at present if it wasn't for "over-protective" legislation.

The Other Side of the Story

Last week at the council meeting K. D. "Tommy" Thomason, Charles Lindsey and Boyd Murphree made an able case for maintaining a $250 license fee for out-of-town furniture dealers. Their strongest argument laid in the fact that since Enterprise, New Brockton, Opp and Troy made it prohibitive for them to do business in those towns because of high license fees, Elba shouldn't invite merchants from those cities to town by lowering the license. It is a good point, well taken.

The problem of "free trade" between cities probably never will be solved on the local level. Whether it could be solved by state legislation is also questionable. Gov. Folsom told a press conference last week that he would like to see the state governing body take some action on the matter so that cities of like size would have license fees in line with each other. He immediately got a retort from Ed Reid, Alabama Municipal League manager, who brought out that restrictive legislation was recently passed regarding out-of-state insurance companies and dairy producers.

Attorneys will point out the complications of testing the legality of a privilege license on the "confiscatory" clause. Such a hearing could drag on for weeks and become expensive for the business challenging the license. Whether or not one city provides like or better services for its merchants comes into the debate. A comprehensive study of all municipal governments, services they provide and licenses they charge would have to be made. When this was done, an average figure would still be open to debate. There are so many variables in the question that a license abuse has to be really flagrant before a court could hold it confiscatory.

Both sides of the question have been thoroughly discussed locally. End result was that the council stuck with its decision to lower the license fee from $250 to $100 for out-of-town dry cleaners, furniture dealers and tire recappers.

The item to insist on now is strict enforcement of the new license. While this is the main responsibility of I. F. "Bow" Dunaway, chief of police, and his men, the public can help. Any time an out-of-town furniture truck, dry cleaner or tire recapper's truck is seen in the neighborhood, a call to the police station would alert the patrolman on duty. It would be a simple thing to have a list of foreign businesses who have taken out privilege licenses in the police office. If the reported truck belonged to a firm that hadn't paid its license in Elba, the patrolman could hop in the new police prowl car and go out and bring in the offending party. The firm then should be cited for doing business in town without a license.

A rigorous enforcement of the licensing law as it now reads is owed to the merchants in town who are the main contributors to municipal government finances. In the long run we believe this will be more beneficial to everyone concerned than the $250 license which was not paid by many out-of-town concerns doing business here.

Poor HS Education Result of Unguided Course Choice

Whose fault is it that the boy or girl doesn't get what he needs in high school?

If the school doesn't teach the needed subject, it's the school's fault. If it does, and that is usually the case, one must look elsewhere.

The following taken from the Minneapolis Labor Review sums up the situation quite accurately:

According to a recent article in News Week, 5,000 high school graduates between the ages of 17 and 22 were surveyed. Eighty per cent expressed dissatisfaction with their high school education. They described their high school training as a time for fun, frindships and wasted opportunities.

Looking back those who did not go to college say that they should have had more vocational training and less cultural training.

Up to this point we are in substantial agreement, but when they blame the adults including the teachers and others who run the schools, we take issue with the survey.

Under the present system of free electives in high school, if these youths made a poor selection, they themselves and their parents are to blame; for after all it is the demand of the parents for this freedom that is responsible for the system of free election.

Sixty-two percent said that they had little or no counselling. This we doubt, since every teacher in the classroom and the front office counsels, but be that as it may, most counselling has about as much effect as pouring water on a duck's back.

We have long and loudly argued that high school youth are not mature or responsible enough to select their subjects. Too often they shop around for easy credits and under parental pressure, administrators find snap courses and "easy" teachers for them. Here lies the cause of wasted opportunities they now complain about.

In other issues we have recommended the division of the curriculum into Academic (College preparatory), Techincal (Engineering preparation), Business, Vocational (shop training) and Homemaking.

Youth entering high school would select with the approval of their parents, the type course they wish to pursue. From here on they would follow a prescribed course of study to assure proficiency in the field selected. This would put an end to shopping for snap courses and credits.

—The Sleepy Eye (Minn.) Herald-Dispatch

At last reports 19 people in a Kansas village were still homeless since Tuesday. A skunk got under the town's only tavern and some fool tried to poke it out with a fish pole.

—The Nance County (Neb.) Journal

It is really too bad that future generations cannot be here at this time to see the wonderful things we are doing with their money.

—The Lyden (Wash.) Tribune

NEW DISCOVERY MADE—

Heart Research Progressing

Dr. J. O. Finney, Gadsden, president of the Alabama Heart Association, called attention today to new scientific discoveries which give promise of safe "anti-rust" drugs to prevent possible heart attacks.

Heart attacks have come because heart arteries become narrow and clogged with fatty deposits, much like rust inside a water pipe.

The anti-rust drugs would dissolve out some of the fatty stuff or prevent it from forming, to keep the blood pipelines open. Such drugs would be a tremendous boon to thousands of persons who already have had a heart attack, or who are headed for one.

One chemical, a salt of the metal vanadium, has succeeded in removing the fatty "rust" in the arteries of rabbits, and in reducing manufacture of the fatty material inside the body.

Tests are planned to learn whether vanadium salts or anything similar can do the same for humans.

The vanadium studies are described by Dr. George L. Curran and associates of the University of Kansas Medical School. They are one of the research teams working on this new preventive approach to heart attack.

A main ingredient in the fatty plugs or rust that blocks heart arteries is chloresterol in various foodstufs. But your body also manufactures it.

Eating low-fat and low cholestrol diets is one way of trying to keep the amount down, so there won't be so much that would collect inside the heart arteries. Heart attacks result when an artery becomes completely blocked by the plugs or plaques, or when a blood clot gets stuck in a narrowed artery.

But Dr. Curran and others believe the main hazard comes from cholesterol which is made inside the body by the liver and even by the arteries themselves. They are seeking drugs which would cut down this internal manuafcture of cholesterol.

Vandium salts look promising in animal experiments.

"Such discoveries brought about by heart research are made possible by the public's generous contributions to the Heart Fund Campaigns held each year," Dr. Finney said. "We hope that Alabamians will again open their hearts during the 1957 Heart Fund campaign which will be held throughout February. These donations are the only means by which heart research may continue — research which will someday lead to the end of the dread heart diseases."
